

The Propel Student Work Placement Program supports tourism and hospitality employers in offering post-secondary students paid work-integrated learning opportunities.

Propel creates a direct link between students looking to enhance their workplace skills and employers who can provide valuable experience, while also showcasing the depth and breadth of career pathways in the industry.

Students gain paid hands-on learning and mentoring in their field of study. Employers acquire much-needed early talent to help with the recovery of the industry, as well as assistance with wages. Post-secondary institutions complement their programming by connecting students and the workplace.

WAGE SUBSIDY

Employers are eligible to be reimbursed for a percentage of each qualifying student's wages.

ELIGIBILITY

Registered Canadian businesses, startups, and not-for-profits related to the tourism and hospitality sector. The position being covered must be a work-integrated learning opportunity for a post-secondary student.

APPLICATION PROCESS

Employers register on the Propel online portal, post the position they wish to fill, hire a student, and apply for a wage subsidy.
